Noble Rot:

Botrytis Cinerea, also known as “Noble Rot” is a fungus that colonizes the grapes and causes water to evaporate through the skin of the fruit.

Under the perfect conditions with the right amount of humidity and heat Botrytis will transform the grapes into “Drops of Gold”.

Ice Wine:

Ice wine, a name that carries magic and mysticism, made from frozen grapes.

In the cold nights of winter, when nature is at rest and the air is crystal clear, a gift of frost.

Ice wine is a jewel among wines, a liquid tribute to the beauty of nature and skill of winegrowers.

Late Harvest:

Late harvest wine is typically a dessert wine known for its sweetness and lush nectar-like flavors.

It's made from grapes that are left on the vines beyond their usual harvest season, allowing the fruit to mature and sweetness to develop.

Soleo & Appassimento:

A very ancient practice that precedes the Greek civilization, the process consists in drying the grapes after harvest in the winery on straw mats or hung up from the ceiling, until they reach a point of desired concentration.

The grapes can lose around 30% of their original weight, concentrating the sugars, flavour compounds, and acidity

Port:

Unique blend of indigenous grapes.

Port wine stands out from ordinary wines due to its unique characteristics: an enormous variety of types that surprise us with the wealth and intensity of their incomparable aromas, a highly persistent aroma and flavour, a high alcohol content, a vast range of degrees of sweetness and an assortment of colours

Madeira:

A fascinating aspect that contributes to the distinctiveness of Madeira wine is the variety of soils found on the island, which impacts the nuances of the final wine.

Madeira's unique taste comes from repeatedly heating the wine. The heating creates a wine with fascinating flavors of roasted nuts, stewed fruit, caramel, and toffee.
